

Our main objective at project code is to teach ex offenders a viable and sustainable skill to increase entrepreneur expertise. Project code is a wholly-owned subsidiary of Smith Design. Project Code has two employees the coding instructor and the season businessperson.

the code instructor will teach and reinforce coding lessons and the businessman will teach total business acumen and the principles involved in creating a sustainable and profitable small business for those marginalize individuals from the designated cities.

Instruction will be presented to participants via an inexpensive tablet 7 days a week. Three times a year we will meet participants in cohorts in the designated cities for continued study and learning assessment. Project Code will have a qualified code instructor but the owner of Project Code will teach business etiquette. The business owner has ran a small computer repair and upgrade business, a successful hvac and electrical business run from his personal residence in Chicago for many years.

T Smith has served the underserved communities for several years providing business seminars in Chicago's underserved areas. We want to teach ex offenders business and technical skills to employ and empower them.

Smith Designs is now located in Atlanta and we are a for-profit entity which involves Tony Smith the degreed english literature president and A. Smith wife, whom holds a master's degree in education and Curriculum and Instruction.

funding provided by SBA will be for tablets and software materials. We will be to monitor attendance of all participants. This is a six-month program and all participants must attend either the online courses five days a week or review the recorded material. Three times a year participants must meet instructors and cohorts in their designated cities for further lessons, summary and assessments. 3 no shows will result in expulsion from the program.

Next paragraph We will look for lower-level offenders who have been free of incidents from 0 to 3 months after leaving correctional facilities. I am ecstatic about the teaching of these individuals a skill that with their desire and after can create self-sufficiency and profits for them. Smith design is a new companies started from the home of T Smith and a Smith in Chicago we are 57 and 55 respectively with four adorable well-educated mannerable girls.

Our oldest daughter is a teacher with a master's degree in education, one is in pharmacy school, and we have a set of twin girls in undergraduate school. We have been married for 30 years and are educators ourselves. We are from the African-American community and know the value of opportunity, seizing the moment and facilitating education.

We have volunteered in the Chicago Park District teaching people business acumen. If given the opportunity to help such of a worthy and overlooked segment of American society we would be overjoyed and know that will be successful in helping people the American Dream.