“ENABLING FUTURE CITIES TO BE SMART. STRATEGIES TO PREVENT URBAN POVERTY AND PROMOTE SOCIAL INCLUSION AND WELLBEING”

- ii. “By 2030 more than 60% of the world’s population is projected to live in cities:

“Urban centers will face key challenges in ensuring that the needs of people living in hardship are met. As cities become smart, they must also provide equal access to the benefits of technological progress for vulnerable social groups and leave no one behind.

“Innovation can be a catalyst for change and ensure that our cities and communities are resilient.” By UN DSPD/DESA

THE TRANSFORMATIVE POWER OF URBANIZATION

- iii. “Throughout modern history, urbanization has been a major driver of development and poverty reduction. Governments can respond to this key development opportunity through Habitat III by promoting a new model of urban development that is able to integrate all facets of sustainable development to promote equity, welfare and shared prosperity;

“It is time to think urban: how to mobilise the global community and focus all levels of human settlements, including small rural communities, villages, market towns, intermediate cities and metropolises for social and economic growth. Habitat III can help systematise the alignment between cities and towns and national planning objectives in their role as drivers of national economic and social development;

“Urbanization is an unprecedented challenge. By the middle of 21st the century, four of every five people might be living in towns and cities. Urbanization and development are inextricably linked and it is necessary to find a way of ensuring the sustainability of growth. Urbanization had become a driving force as well as a source of development with the power to change and improve lives.” By the UN HABITAT.

- iv. “In 1970s, SMU served as a driving force behind Korea’s economic development by modernizing rural communities and reforming people’s mentality. As its iconic motto of “Let’s Live Well” illustrates, it was a movement aiming at better lives. It brought people around the same dream of getting themselves out of poverty and propelled government's pursuit toward development. By making transformative changes possible, it left a huge footprint in the history of Korea's economic development.” Republic of Korea's KOICA

v. DEFINITION OF SAEMAUL UNDONG (SMU) COMMUNITY OR VILLAGE MOVEMENT:

The Republic of Korea's, “KOICA's Smart SMU refers to holistic community development programs that are launched on the basis of partner government's willingness for development and people's voluntary participation. SMU aims to establish infrastructure customized to local conditions and introduce appropriate technology to increase income and to address issues in all sectors important for development, including agriculture, fishery, ICT, education, health, environment and gender.” By the Republic of Korea's KOICA

vi. STRATEGY OF SAEMUAL UNDONG (SMU):

The Republic of Korea's, “KOICA stresses the importance of meeting international norms and principles in undertaking development programs: inclusive partnership, ownership, transparency and accountability. Based on the principles of SMU, KOICA is committed to distributing appropriate technology that is most suitable in the settings of partner countries to maximize performance in increasing incomes of rural households. KOICA's projects are oriented toward creating added-value by actively tapping into value chain, including processing, distribution and marketing. KOICA is looking to position SMU as an integrative community development model that takes into account all sectors for development and cross-cutting issues.” By the Republic of Korea's KOICA.

vii. Disability-Inclusion and Accessible Sustainable Urban and Rural Development and Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs), 2030 Agenda

“It is estimated that by 2050, 66% of the world's population will be living in cities. Urban development brings both great opportunity and challenges. For the world's more than one billion persons with disabilities, too often, their needs, concerns and contributions were often neglected in urban planning, design and construction of cities in many parts of the world. Ill-planned and built urban presented significant challenges to widespread lack of access to built environments, from roads and housing, to public buildings and spaces, basic urban services, such as sanitation and water, health, education, transportation, and emergency response programs.” (UN DSPD/DESA).

- viii. Persons with disabilities represents a significant overlooked development challenge, and ensuring equality of rights and access for these persons will have an enormous impact on the social and economic situation in Nigeria.
- ix. Article 26 of the United Nations Conventions on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities (CRPD) highlights the pragmatic and action-oriented measure to be undertaken by states parties to undertake and support inclusive development for PWD. One of such actions is the role of government in ensuring that people with disabilities enjoy comprehensive habilitation and rehabilitation services and programmes, particularly in the areas of health, employment, education and social services.
- x. All the Nigerian Vocational Rehabilitation programmes are planned and implemented in a manner that is not disability sensitive, and full of Barriers. The issues around access and participation of persons with disabilities is not taking into consideration during the planning and implementation of programmes in Nigeria, and this automatically excludes persons with disabilities from enjoying development projects. They roam the major streets of Nigerian cities begging for alms and food because of lack of education and abject poverty.
- xi. Furthermore, the literacy rate amongst persons with disabilities, especially, women and girls, is very low and they would not fit into most corporate jobs, and the few vocational training centers that are available are ill-equipped and not disability sensitive to take on the training and rehabilitation services for persons with disabilities.
- xii. The “GOVERNMENT PARTNER/COLLABORATOR,” having represented that she has the personnel, technical expertise and professional skills, that will aid the, “Collaboration,” to provide, Disability-Inclusive and Accessible Sustainable Urban/City Developments; accessible buildings/structures, for use in providing, a wide range of academic education, life skill training, work preparation experiences, and rehabilitation, job training and placements services, designed to build confidence in Nigerians with disabilities, foster independence, and achieve employments through the development of a culturally sensitive and acceptable, customized program of services for each individual, has consented to provide the said Building/Structure services in Anambra State, Plateau State and throughout the 6 Geographical Zones of Nigeria and Africa's Lake Chad Basin Nations (Republic du Niger, Chad, Cameroon and Nigeria), subject to the terms and conditions hereinafter set forth.

xiii. What is Boldline?

DEFINITION OF P-3 is a Government/Public-Private Partnership

Department of State / Boldline Accelerator

“Boldline is the U.S. Department of State’s new partnership accelerator aimed to support and scale innovative public-private partnerships (P3s). One of the first programs of its kind, Boldline supports social good public-private partnerships that address pressing global challenges and focuses on giving them tools to scale their missions. The main goal of Boldline is to build and deploy strategic connections and collaborations aimed at: a) strengthening the global partnership building ecosystem; b) promoting and facilitating connectivity between the private sector and governments; and c) fostering innovative partnership business models. Boldline will take the often dotted lines between government, private sector and civil society and create a bold line between the sectors through partnerships.”

xiv. THE U.S. DEPARTMENT OF STATE ACCELERATOR

“The U.S. Department of State in close collaboration with industry leaders will organize a one-week partnership building accelerator program that will bring together selected stakeholders of public-private partnerships, including public institutions, corporations, innovation companies, entrepreneurship support organizations, and financial institutions to galvanize interest for the participating partnerships and to help build the framework for these partnerships in targeted countries. The program will identify timely P3s that are in the early development stages of their partnerships or are ready to scale their operations and activities. Through a one week accelerator and ongoing support, Boldline will provide the individuals and institutions behind these partnerships with mentorship, access to resources, government relations, and global networks needed to scale their impact. The accelerator will take place in February 2018 in Washington, DC and participation in the program will be highly competitive;
